Executive Summary

Effective performance management is essential for governments seeking to deliver high-quality public services, optimize resource utilization, and achieve national development goals. This program equips public sector leaders and managers with modern frameworks for measuring, monitoring, and improving institutional performance. Participants will explore strategic performance management tools, data-driven decision-making methods, and accountability systems used by leading governments worldwide. Through practical workshops and real-world case studies, the program demonstrates how performance metrics and evaluation systems can enhance efficiency and transparency in public institutions. By the end of the program, participants will be able to design and implement performance management systems that drive sustainable public sector results.
