Executive Summary

Transparency and strong anti-corruption practices are fundamental to building accountable institutions, strengthening governance, and maintaining public trust. This program provides leaders, compliance professionals, and public sector officials with the tools and frameworks needed to promote transparency and prevent corruption within organizations and government institutions. Participants will explore international anti-corruption standards, integrity systems, and effective oversight mechanisms used worldwide. Through practical case studies and interactive workshops, the program demonstrates how transparency initiatives and ethical governance practices can reduce corruption risks and improve institutional performance. By the end of the program, participants will be equipped to design and implement sustainable anti-corruption strategies that promote integrity and public confidence.
